NATION'S BRIDE IS MARRIED.

Washington, Feb. 17.—With a plain circle of virgin gold, in the historic East room of the White House at thirteen minutes after 12 o'clock today, Alice Lee Roosevelt, eldest daughter of the President of the United States, and Nicholas Longworth, the Representative in Congress from the First district of Ohio, were united in marriage.

The ceremony—one of the most impressive ever performed in the Executive Mansion—was according to the liturgy of the protestant Episcopal church, of which the bride is a member. It was solemnized by the devotional beauty of a cathedral service.

No ceremony of a similar kind ever was witnessed by a more distinguished assemblage. There were present as guests, not only the most eminent representatives of the American Government, but the personal commissions of the Kings and Potentates of the powers of the civilized world, constituting an assemblage not only one of the largest, but the most distinguished that ever was gathered at one time in the White House.

A halo of a hundred years of romantic White House history hung over the bridal couple. Miss Roosevelt was the twelfth bride, according to accepted authorities, to plight her troth with the handmaid of her choice, "for better, or for worse," is hallowed in the memory of another White House bride, "Nellie" Grant, who, thirty-two years ago on that same spot became the wife of an Englishman, Almonion C. F. Sartoris. Tender, indeed, must have been the recollections of Mrs. Sartoris of that day, now long ago, when she was the eye-witness of Miss Roosevelt's wedding.

One Thousand Guests.

While the bride, herself, and the President and Mrs. Roosevelt had desired that the ceremony of the marriage should be quiet and simple as possible, it was found impracticable to limit the function, as was intended at first, to the immediate relatives of the bride and bridegroom. It became necessary to include among the guests invited certain official classes and personal friends of Miss Roosevelt and Mr. Longworth, and, in all, the people bidden to the ceremony numbered a thousand.

The ceremony took place in the East room, made famous by a century of brilliant social functions, but no event in its history ever was so brilliant and beautiful as that of today. The classic splendor of the great apartment was enhanced by exquisite and artistic decorations and the brilliant artificial decorations of a gorgeous day lent added beauty to the setting of the wedding.

It had been intended to light the magnificient room with the hundreds of softly shaded electric lamps of the great crystal chandeliers, but, while the decorations were being carried out, the remainder of the White House, it was determined to flood the marriage scene with sunlight.

In The Sunlight.

It was a beautiful concert founded on the pretty proverb: "Happy is the bride who the sun shines on." No livelier day in winter ever dawned.

The air was as balmy, almost as in spring. No more auspicious day for a wedding could have been imagined.

For days the entire Breckinridge County had been quiet, specified no one of each day had been closed, pending arrangements for today's ceremony.

The East room, in which the ceremony occurred, was decorated most elaborately.

Beginning of Ceremony.

At four minutes after 12 o'clock

Mrs. Roosevelt, on the arm of her elder son Theodore, Jr., descended the main staircase, and entered the East room, which the bride was led by the west door. She was preceded by Major Charles McCreary and other military aides, and was escorted to a point at the left of the platform where the wedding ceremony was to take place.

The mother and sisters of the bridegroom and other designated members of his family already had assumed their places at the right of the platform.

That a way might be kept clear for the approach to the extemporized alter of the wedding two strong white satin ropes were stretched from each side of the main entrance to the East room to points on the east wall of the apartment on the north and south sides of the floral bower.

Mr. Roosevelt was followed by his son Kermit, and his daughter Ethel and her sons Archie and Quin in couples. The children stood with their mothers on the north side of the alter platform.

As she entered the East room Mrs.

Roosevelt graciously acknowledged the greeting of friends. She wore a superb gown of cream colored brocade heavy and richly designed, on which were figures of blue and brown interlaced with threads of gold. The dress was cut in Princess style with a long train of the same brocaded material.

It was trimmed in brown chiffon, em

brodered in blue and gold.

The train of the dress was formed of embroidered chiffon, as were the trimmings of the elbow sleeves. The skirt, exquisitely designed, was panelled in blue and gold embroidery. She wore long white undressed kid gloves,

and ornaments of diamonds.

Bridegroom Follows.

Following her almost immediately came the bridegroom, Nicholas Longworth, accompanied by his best man

Thomas Nelson Perkins, of Boston,

one of the members of the corporation of Harvard College, and a classmate at college of Mr. Longworth.

They descended the main staircase and entered the East room under this escort of the military aides. The groom and his best man took their places at the foot of the embowered platform to await the coming of the bride. Already Bishop Satterlee had taken his place on the platform, attired in the purple vestments of his clerical office, and with iron robes of his clerical office, and with iron robes of his clerical office.

Scarcely had the bridegroom entered the East room when the doors of the state dining room at the west entrance of the main corridor were flung open and the bridal procession started for the extemporized alter.

Then Comes The Bride.

The President and Miss Roosevelt had descended from the upper apartments of the White House by the elevator. They had passed into the private dining room and thence into the state dining room. There they were joined by the ushers, Quincy A. Shaw, of Boston; Frederick Winthrop, of New York; and Francis R. Baugus, of Boston; Guy Norman, of Boston; A. B.

Wallingford, of Cincinnati; Lars

Anderson, of Washington; Vicomte

Charles De Chambray, of the French

Embassy, and Theodore Roosevelt, Jr.

Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Shaw led the bridal procession.

Following the ushers came President

Roosevelt and the bride, her hand resting lightly within the right arm of her father.

The procession moved through the main corridor and into the East room, the marine band orchestra rendered effectively the grand march from Wagner's "Tannhauser." Miss

Roosevelt never appeared to better advantage. Perfectly self-possessed and thoroughly appreciative of the situation, she graciously recognized and bowed to personal friends who lined the way to the alter.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Short will be greatly missed here as they were hardly two more popular people in the city than were they.

While no space necessary for guests was taken up with floral decorations, every room in the lower part of the Executive Mansion was brilliant with flowers and decorative plants.

SOME QUEER BELIEFS

SUPERSTITIONS THAT LINGER IN THIS MOVING WORLD.

There is Not a Country on the Face of the Globe That is Without its Peculiar Customs or Quaint Ideas Regarding Signs and Omens.

Though many of the old omens and superstitions have passed, there still remain among every race hundreds and thousands of popular beliefs. Early religious teachings, financial beliefs, worship of idols, sorcery, necromancy and the like perhaps hold the foundation for the superstitions found among the peoples of the globe. It may be interesting to specify a few particularly. By comparing them with those which have sprung up in our own country, in the United States, the reader will be astonished at the similarity of a number and set to wondering how they became so widespread. Did they in some form exist before the confusion of languages, or were they carried from country to country by restless individuals interested in spreading their superstitions? It is known that the most important and degraded tribes on the other side of the world have some superstitions in common with the most civilized and progressive countries on this side?

The Eskimos believe in ghosts. To change the wind they drum, chant and howl, sometimes to make fire and at last resort fire the graves of the dead. When a child dies in Greenland the natives bury a live dog with it to be used by the child as a guide to the other world. When asked about this superstition they answer that "a dog can find his way anywhere." Some refer to this custom as aathetic, the prevailing superstitions of France, where a mother louses her dead child with its favorite toy or her own hair, "that it may not feel quite alone."

Speaking of France, the belief is popular that the position of a drowned body may be discovered by a floating loaf of bread placed near the body. Some think that the loaf is apt to be carried by a current just as a body is. In lava a live sheep is thrown into the water to locate a drowned body by sinking near it. In certain sections of the United States a shirt belonging to the deceased or some near relative is thrown in to float on its grave. Some say that if a shirt is buried in a search of a dead body it may not find who it is. In the last, fully believing that the bird will crow when the host reaches the spot where the corpse lies.

The cows and certain omens have long been connected in various countries. If it rains at a particular time in Persia it is the sign of a good harvest. The husband and the master of the house rushes out to feel the bird's feet; if they are cold, it is a forewarning of death, but if warm, the sign is propitious. In West Virginia the crowing of a cock before the door tells of a coming "goominy," while it is believed in other portions of the south, if not by the rural population of other states, of the death of a child, but the shrill claxon after sunset indicates early weather changes or tempests.

The natives of Cutier believe one should at least be in communion with Americans, they regard the hosting of an owl as a very bad sign. If they can succeed in killing the owl, however, the spell is broken and the life of some member of the family. There is something weird in its location, and I have known persons to get out of bed at midnight to drive it from the tree or a corner of the dwelling, believing it a harbinger of ill. Perhaps the bird is held in awe by the natives, as it is by every enlightened nation, so held or regarded with reverence. The people in the south of Ireland are particularly fearful of the robin entering their houses, it is prognostic of severe snows and frosts. The crow and pigeons are looked upon as unlucky in Poland, where the geese is a harbinger of good luck. In Sweden if one kills a hen, he will break a bone before the year is out.

The animals and insects that in friendliness live near the abodes of man ought to have outlived the superstitions surrounding them long ago, but they have not. In Switzerland if a mountain goat is seen in the fields, the men soon in distress like poor or meets an old woman he turns back home. The first means in game, the second that he will shoot a man hidden in the leaves or do some other irreparable mischief. In America it is the rabbit crossing one's path which brings some bad luck, and the crow which is equally unlucky to kill chickens. In Lancashire it is thought they cut holes in the stockings of those who kill them. In portions of England also it is customary to announce to the bees a death in the family, especially that of the master, who if it is a widow sets the dead body in a tree and the bees will come to the funeral, which is held in rural America. If one kills the first snake he sees in the spring it promises that he will overcome his enemies during that year. On the other hand, the African natives reverence the snake, and once a year kill a cobra and hang its skin to a tree, till down, where all the children are brought out and made to touch it as this will protect them from snake bite. If they find a dead snake they dress it in clothes and give it a great funeral. The American Indians believe every white deer has a mastodon in its stomach. The eat and dog, universal pets though they be, are associated with superstitions belief. In England it is considered unlucky to bring a dog into the grave and in Poland it is thought that the wearing of the skin of a cat on the breast will cure consumption.

Sailors of all countries have been noted for their peculiar superstitions from the time Jonah was thrown overboard to the present day. No sailor will not speak of a four footed animal while on the ocean. The Spanish never put the left foot down first when stepping on board, for to do so, they believe, will bring disaster. He must be a courageous Swedish sailor, indeed, who will not name the name of a port for which he is bound.

The following "nothings" are as peculiar as they are popular when they have sway: A Turk who finds a piece of bread on the ground picks it up, kisses it and carries it until he finds a hole in which it can be inserted. To do this is to bring good luck. A sure cure for whooping cough in Sweden can be obtained, the people believe, by asking and following the advice of a man riding a piebald horse. In Scotland a young woman who tries on a widow's cap is sure to be a widow after marriage. A man who carries a small child in his scuttle, turns three times around before the fire while singing her favorite song. This is to ward off evil spirits.

When a boy a friend of mine attempted to rid my hands of warts by following me with these directions: Tie a knot in a yarn string for every wart, and when you have tied the string, and when it is tied, the wart would be gone. Recently I learned that the faroff Hindoo, troubled with a wart, looks at the new moon, picks up a pinch of dust from beneath his left foot, rubs the wart with it, and when the moon disappears, the wart is gone.

In a simpler way I have specified one of the superstitions obtaining in England and America. I shall close this article with the mere mention of a few others. The English housewife will not sweep the dust out of the front door, fearing to sweep away the fortune of the house. In America, in search of a married lady may not find who with a cock in the front, fully believing that the bird will crow when the host reaches the spot where the corpse lies.

Lame Back.

This ailment is usually caused by rheumatism of the muscles and may be cured by applying Chamberlain's Pain Balm two or three times a day and rubbing the parts vigorously at each application. If this does not afford relief bind a piece of flannel slightly dampened with Pain Balm, and quick relief is almost sure to follow. For sale by Short & Haynes, Cloverport.

He Was Too Late.

"He's late," said the jeweler, "is what I happened to think just now."

"Mr. B. drew up in a hansom and entered my shop unaccompanied by his valet, who carried an old box of silver, and a box of old diamonds.

"Mr. B. asked for a private interview, and I took him into my office. There he opened the box, exposing a singular array of diamond and pearl necklaces, earrings, thongs and stone adorns."

"Mrs. B.," he said, "is now abroad. Before she returns I want you to extract all these stones and to replace them with good imitations, selling the real jewels and giving me the money, of course, to be a confidential retainer. Mr. B. is to know nothing of it."

"I looked at Mr. B.," continued the jeweler, according to the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, "I said, 'I think it blushed a little. ' My dear sir," I said, "I should be glad to do as you ask, but I am in no position. Two years ago Mrs. B. sold me a diamond ring which I have had ever since. It is the only one I have, and it is very valuable. I have no money, and I have no time to go to a jeweler."

A Garden in a Tab.

Water glass tubes are better than nothing at all. A kerosene barrel saved in half will furnish two tubes, each big enough for one plant. The tube should be well washed out and soaked for some time in water in order to remove as much as possible of the oil and dirt. Then it is necessary to render the vessel tight. Three or four days to a week will suffice for this.

It will be better, though not essential, to have the tube sunk about half its depth in the earth so as to keep the roots cool. Though the leaves and flowers love sunlight, the black ones in which the roots usually live is always cool.—Garden Magazine.

LOW RATE TO FRANKFORT.

During State Farmers' Institute
Last of This Month And March 1.

LARGE ATTENDANCE EXPECTED.

Frankfort, Ky., Feb. 5th, 1906. Mr. Jno. D. Babbage, Secy., Cloverport, Ky. My Dear Sir:—This Department has secured a railroad rate of one and one third fare plus twenty-five cents for those attending the State Farmers' Institute, which will be held at Frankfort, February 27th and 28th and March 1st. Those desiring to attend are requested to take certificates, when signed by the secretary of the Farmers' Institute, will entitle the holder to a one-third rate return. This rate cannot be secured except upon the presentation of these certificates issued by ticket agent at starting point.

This is a splendid opportunity to visit the State Capital during the sitting of the General Assembly at reduced rate, to hear some of the most distinguished lecturers in the United States, to enjoy the hospitality of the Frankfort Business Men's Club, and, most important of all, to inform a farming organization, which will be backed by the State Department of Agriculture, Labor and Statistics.

I trust that this Department can accomplish nothing without the co-operation of the farmers and it is counting on you to help make it a success. There is a spirit of progress in evidence all over the State and a backward step at this time would be a severe blow to the agricultural interests. Yours for success,

Robert Vreeland,
Commissioner.

A Menace to Health.

Kidney trouble is an insidious danger, and many people are victims of the superstitions obtaining in England and America. I shall close this article with the mere mention of a few others. The English housewife will not sweep the dust out of the front door, fearing to sweep away the fortune of the house. In America, in search of a married lady may not find who with a cock in the front, fully believing that the bird will crow when the host reaches the spot where the corpse lies.

A Kentucky Sunset.

Down at the end of the iron lane
I see the sunset's glaze,
And the red bars he across the sky
Like steps of a wondrous stair.

Below, the throng with uplifted eye
Sweeps on in its heedless flight
Where the street's black funnel pours its tide.

Out into the deepening night.

And no one has stopped to read God's word.

On the fiery heavens scrolled,
Save an old man dreaming of boyhood days.

And a boy who would fain be old.

—Charles Hamilton Masgrove, in the New England Magazine.

Common Colds Are the Cause of Many Serious Diseases

Physicians who have gained a national reputation as analysts of the causes of various diseases, claim that if catching cold could be avoided all along list of dangerous ailments would never be heard of. Every one knows that pneumonia and consumption originate from a cold, and chronic catarrh, bronchitis, and all throat and lung trouble are aggravated and rendered more serious by each fresh attack. Do not risk your life or take chances when you have a cold. Chubberlin's Cold Remedy will cure before these diseases develop. This remedy contains no opium, morphine or other harmful drug and has thirty years of reputation back of it, gained by its users under every condition. For sale by Short & Haynes, Cloverport.

The Word opium.

The Word opium means merely a leader of the people, someone deemed to attract an evil sense to itself. In English, Dryden and Swift used it in a good or neutral sense; the latter applying it to Demosthenes and Cleero, and John Richard Green wrote enthusiastically of Pyam as "the grandest despot of the world." In French, however, it is used in the "Elion Basilles" as tributary to Charles I, let Milton to speak of it as "a goblin word," and that is how it is invariably used today. In its native Greek its history was similar. It could be applied to statesmen such as Pericles, but, from being a leader of the people, it gradually came to characterize such popular leaders as the leather seller Cleon. It could eventually be defined by Aristotle as "flatterer of the democracy."

His Small Bank Account.
I am a young professional man, with only a partly developed income as yet. Once in awhile, perhaps three or four times a month, he gets a check from a client. These checks he deposited in one of the larger banks for a time, but his income was always greater than his expenses, and he would always find that he ought to carry at least $500 with the bank. He closed the account, and then began planning how to be a depositor with a small account, and yet be under no obligations.

He went to a smaller bank, stated his circumstances frankly and asked what the cashier would consider the cost of a month of carrying his account. He was told to come in the next day and, doing so, was informed that he could open an account and have a balance or no balance, just as he pleased. That means $24 a year, but it suited him.

"Now I put in a check—when I get one—and draw against it," he says, "and I'm under no obligation to any one. I have as much independence as the fellow who carries a balance running into the thousands. The scheme isn't patented, either."—New York Post.

Man is Oddly Made.

The established fact that a person's hands or feet are rarely of uniform size is better known than that the two sides of a human's face are never alike. It is a scientific principle that the eyes are not of like size, one being larger, and one eye is said to be stronger than the other in the ratio of seven to ten persons. As a rule, the right ear is a trifle more elevated than the left. Individuals having fair complexions show the largest percentage of visual defects. One person in fifteen has permanent amblyopia, and one in twenty is more acutely distinguished with one ear than the other. In this connection two are not as good as one. The middle fingers grow the fastest, while those on thumbs are slowest in development. The thumbs of all fingers never grow with the same rapidity. In some persons the right thumb is shorter than the left. The bones of an average human male weigh twenty pounds; a woman's skeleton scales six pounds lighter. New York Press.

Luckiest Man in Arkansas.

"I'm the luckiest man in Arkansas," writes H. L. Storer, of Branson, "since the restoration of my wife's health after five years of continuous coughing and bleeding from the lungs; and I owe my good fortune to the world's greatest medicine, Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, which I know from experience will cure consumption if taken in time. My wife improved with first bottle and twelve bottles completed the cure." Cases of the worst coughs and colds or money refunded. At Short & Haynes drugists, 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

Two Old Volumes.

The book down in French monk who instead of writing the words cut the letters from the vellum page and formed a sort of stencil has its opposite in a Swedish translation of the four gospels, which was done in gold and silver leaf. The capital letters and end titles are of beaten gold and in delicate tracery, while the body of the text is of heavy silver. The foil is cemented to the parchment page with an adhesive which in spite of the undoubted antiquity of the book has not lost its powers. Most break books were evidently done to perpetuate the name of the ingenious owner, but this carries absolutely no information as to its maker.

A more modern flaw is the output of a Lyons silk weaving firm and is a player book in which the letters are woven into the silk. But one copy was made of the book, and this is in the government library at Paris.

The Word opium.

The Word opium means merely a leader of the people, someone deemed to attract an evil sense to itself.

In English, Dryden and Swift used it in a good or neutral sense; the latter applying it to Demosthenes and Cleero, and John Richard Green wrote enthusiastically of Pyam as "the grandest despot of the world."

As it is used in the "Elion Basilles" as tributary to Charles I, let Milton to speak of it as "a goblin word," and that is how it is invariably used today.

In its native Greek its history was similar. It could be applied to statesmen such as Pericles, but, from being a leader of the people, it gradually came to characterize such popular leaders as the leather seller Cleon. It could eventually be defined by Aristotle as "flatterer of the democracy."

The Yellow Fever Germ

has recently been discovered. It bears a close resemblance to the malarial.

To free the system from disease

germs, the most effective remedy Dr.

King's, New Life Pills.

Guaranteed to cure all diseases due to malaria poison and constipation. 25c. at Short & Haynes, Drug Store.

Deficiencies of Sight.

The two eyes really see two objects.

If the two forefingers be held, one at the distance of one foot, the other two feet in front of the eyes, and the fingers be looked at, two phantoms of the latter will be observed, one on each side. If the latter be regarded two phantoms of the nearer finger will be observed mounting guard, one on each side.

CHILDREN

If You Have Any Ailing Ones This Will Interest You.

"We see so many little boys and girls at town who are weak, thin-legged and hollow-cheeked," said a member of the firm of Short & Haynes, our well known druggists. "It seems a shame to allow them to remain so for they will grow up into weak, sickly and nervous men and women, without the vitality to work or enjoy life."

"It," continued he, "is the fathers and mothers of such children who would believe what we say if Vinol, we would see a great difference in the appearance of the younger generation of this city. You know Vinol is not a patent medicine, and is just the tonic growing children need. It will make them for their good, healthy and sound bone, hard muscle, and rich red blood."

"True Vinol is a cod liver oil preparation, but it does not contain a drop of oil, or any bad tasting feature, so delicious that all children love it, yet it actually does contain all the medicinal nutritive elements found in high gods' livers, and is the most wholesome and best medicine for children we ever sold."

"It is because we know that Vinol will do what we guarantee if it fails to make your children well, rugged and gay, to refund your money." Short & Haynes, Druggists.

Evolution of the Species.

Sewing needles of bone, stone, glass and bronze antedate all historic records, but those of iron, brass and steel are comparatively modern. Bone and glass needles have been found in Egyptian tombs that are known to be over 4,000 years old. Iron and steel needles, instruments of bronze and copper have been found in the mounds and burial caves of Europe and America which are believed to be much older than those found with the Nile mummies. The needle first appeared in its present form in 110, but the art of making needles was lost for a century and a half, 200 years after the date last given. In the year 1680 they were first made in the American colonies, but at what point is a mooted question among the historians.

Walt Whitman.

Of the days when Walt Whitman was a nurse in the hospitals of the civil war a biography of the poet says: "He would often come into the wards encircling with downy newly plucked and strewing them over the beds like a heron of the Nile. Well, I do not know if he were messengers of life to the sick, words to them from the earth-mother of men. And then he left of a night after going his last round and kissing many a young, pale, bearded face in fulfillment of his own written injunctions would be heard the boys calling: 'Walt, Walt, Walt! Come again, come again!'"

Hindoo Idols.

Several weeks ago I was in an Indian village and peeped inside the chief Hindoo temple. To my great surprise I saw the portrait of a famous London beauty, nicely framed, calmly looking down from the altar. I was so dumbfounded that I could not speak for a full hour. I am sure, never dreamt that such a woman would be worshipped in this way.—Lukewarm Letter to London Mail.

Voluble.

"Yes, I saw Professor Gabbleton, the voluble, last night."

"Yes, I listened to him for more than an hour at the club last night."

"Indeed: What was he talking about?"

"He didn't say.—Puck."

Women as Well as Men Are Made Miserable by Kidney Trouble.

Kidney trouble preys upon the mind, discourages and lessens ambition; beauty, vigor and cheerfulness soon disappear when the kidney are out of order or diseased.

Kidney trouble has become so prevalent that it is not unusual for a child to be born afflicted with weak kidneys. If the child urinates too often, it is usually a sign that it is reaching an age when it should be able to control the passage. It is yet afflicted with bed-wetting, depend upon it, the cause of the difficulty is kidney trouble, and the first steps to be taken in the treatment of these important organs. This unpleasant trouble is due to a diseased condition of the kidneys and bladder and not to a habit of many people.

Women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble, and both need the same great remedy.

The mild and the immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It is sold by druggists, in fifty cent and one dollar sizes. You may have a sample bottle sent to you, and if you will tell me all about it, including many of the thousands of testimonial letters received from sufferers cured. In writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Springfield, N. Y., be sure and mention this paper.

Don't make any mistake but remember the name, Swamp-Root. Dr. Kilmer's is swamp root, and the address Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

FALSE SENTIMENT.

The highest possible development of civilization is not mechanical, but moral. It does not lie in the ingenious adaptation of the forces of nature to man's needs; it does not lie in the harnessing of the electric elevator. It could exist without the knowledge of the utilization or by products like coal tar. It lies, in fact, in the heart of the problem itself, and its highest development may be expressed in the words: "Respect for man."

We have short memories, but surely not so short that we have forgotten the horrors of the Slocum disaster. Of the directors who did not direct, the inspectors who did not inspect, and the commanding officers who did not command—a gang of scoundrels as heartless as ever raked the lives of their fellow creatures for a few dirty dollars—only the captain of the boat was sent to jail. His plea was that if he did not break the law he would lose his job. He knew that rotten life belts, absence of fire drills, the incompetence of his crew, were all matters which could be severely punished. His plea, in fact, amounted to one of guilty, with the excuse that other people were worse than he.

And yet this plea seems to appeal to some people. Talk of a petition for pardon is plentiful and seems to win sympathy from otherwise same newspapers.

As the master stands, the captain of the Slocum is the most valuable object lesson men of his profession could have placed before them. Two blacks do not make a white. If we can't lay the other rascals by the heels, the more is the pity; but we are not going to let one criminal escape because we can not catch all criminals.

We get something of the same idea at Annapolis. The naval cadet is told that he must not lower the lower class men, and that if he does he will be dismissed. He gives his word of honor as an officer and a gentleman, that he will obey the rule of the institution.

He breaks it and he is dismissed. Congress forgets what he is, and the respect for law mean to who will have to administer it themselves in their future profession. It still leaves the efforts made to secure absolutely necessary discipline by re-instating the offender.

At the bottom of all this there is a false sentiment of pity. The pity is always a surface indication, and never extends to the real victim of the evil involved. As Thomas Paine said to Edmund Burke's romantic defense of Queen Marie Antoinette against those who could also see French royal poverty paying a fair price for the sins of a hundred generations, his pity was all for the soiled plummage; never for the injured bird.

The real sufferers in the instance quoted are the people who travel by excursion boats in the one case, or the cadet who honestly means to qualify for the efficient service of his country and is entitled to be guaranteed the opportunity of doing so, in the other.

There is no question of the day which means so much to Wall street, Pablic credit, which is the breath of its life, is bound up in it. If we tolerate from sentiments of pity an official in a position of responsibility who has shown his moral nullities for it, we are also inflicting upon ourselves an injury greater than any outside enemy can offer.—Wall Street Journal.

Shortsighted Animals.

There is one kind of vehicle that neither the oldest nor the youngest inhabitant has seen on the street at night, or, if he has seen it at all, only infrequently. That is a horse. Every other kind of animal is to be seen in the streets during the day, the horse alone comes under the curfew law. Early hours seem to be imposed upon somehur carriage by common consent. The public doesn't like to see it after dark, and coachmen don't like to drive it. No doubt there are some who think the public is only too anxious to have the arrangements to come home at unusual hours, but when forced to an infringement of the curfew law by their process through outlet streets where they will be less likely to wound the sensibilities of the superstitions—New York Herald.

The greatest wonder of the antiquities is that few naturalists have been able to ascertain there is no such thing as shortsightedness among animals in a state of nature. In the case, however, of domestic animals, the short-sightedness is by no means unknown. Many people who have kept dogs and cats will remember instances of pets which were unable to distinguish friends from strangers at a short distance. Horses, too, frequently suffer from shortsightedness and other damages from the vision of one eye which is frequently affected with the same disease. The diseases of the eye which frequently affect wild animals in captivity are to be chiefly attributed to the narrow space in which they are confined. The eyes are never exercised upon distant objects and therefore lose the powers which use of that kind of forth.

Nervous Women

Their Sufferings Are Usually
Due to Female Disorders
Perhaps Unsuspected

MEDICINE THAT CURES

Can we dispel the well-known fact that American women are nervous often? How often do we hear the expression, "I am so nervous, it seems to me I am going to break to pieces." Don't speak to me! Little things annoy you and make you irritable; you can't sleep, you are unable to quiet and calm your children.

The relation of the nerves and glands to the health of the nervous system, nervous debility, the blues, sleeplessness and nervous irritability arise from some derangement of the organs which makes a woman's condition of depression, restlessness and irritability; spirits easily affected, so that one minute she laughs, the next minute weeps; pain in the abdomen, loss of voice; nervous dyspepsia; tendency to cry at the least provocation.

Nothing will relieve this distressing condition and prevent months of prostration and suffering so surely as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Mrs. M. E. Shottwell, 1010 Flatbush Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y., writes:

"I cannot express the wonderful relief I have experienced by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I suffered from a headache with a sharp, stinging pain in the head, loss of appetite, I could not sleep and would walk the floor almost every night."

"I had three doctors and got no better, and life was a burden. I was advised to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I have walked wonder for it."

"I am a well woman, my nervousness is all gone and my friends say I look ten years younger. Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound convinced me of its virtues? Surely you cannot wish to remain sick, weak and discouraged, exhausted each day, when you can be as easily cured as other women."

pose of relieving fatigue. Rolling is peculiarly enjoyable and grateful to the animal because it provides not only relief for the tensed muscles, the depleted organs and the slow moving circulation, but because as the animal rolls the firm pressure of the ground upon his body constitutes a most effective and agreeable massage.

Heaviness After Night.

Every other kind of animal is to be seen in the streets during the day, the horse alone comes under the curfew law. Early hours seem to be imposed upon somehur carriage by common consent. CAMPAIGNED ON POVERTY.

How Congressman Garrett of Tennessee Won His Election.

Finis J. Garrett, the new Congressman from the Ninth Tennessee district, explains to his colleagues how to get here in a way that will not help the business of the merchant tailor. Garrett was born in 1875. His father, Noah Garrett, decided to give the youth a name suggesting the end of things, which the original Noah had escaped. Young Finis taught school in 1895, was admitted to the bar in 1899, married in 1901, and three years later concluded to take a hand in the direct primaries of his district in an attempt to upset the Hon. Rice A. Pierce, who has been in Congress for fourteen years. To onlookers it seemed a forlorn hope. Pierce so regarded it, and treated the competition as wholly good natured.

But Finis took out his oldest suit of clothes. They were badly worn at the elbows, and frayed at the wrists. In campaign methods he literally had "something up his sleeve." He took the stump on the single issue that Pierce had been enjoying $5,000 a year from the Government for fourteen years, enough to make a man a millionaire; so much money lodged in one man's hands that the good things of life should be passed around. The voters of the district agreed to this. Their sympathies were with the seedy looking young aspirant against any man who had drawn such a colossal salary for so long.

Fini won out and is here in Congress, where he has been assigned to the committees on Claims, on Education and on the Improvement of the Mississippi River, to all of which he may be supposed to be well qualified by the qualifications of an expert. Boston Transcript.

THE sooner the farmer finds out that the real and only road to better prices for his products is through co-operation and combination, the sooner will he ride in a prosperity hand wagon.

SATURDAY, June 2, was fixed as the date for holding a primary election to nominate a Democratic candidate for Congress to succeed Hon. David H. Smith of the Fourth district.

OUR city lamp lighter is not doing his duty. A large percentage of the lamps, even on our main street, are seldom burning after 8:30 p.m. Come now, brother lamp lighter, do your duty.

COL. BEN JOHNSON is the best man in the congressional race so far, in our opinion, and the News stands for Johnson until a man of better qualities enters the field. This paper is for the man, not for qualities.

II. HARDAWAY, of Harlan, Mont., remembers the editor with a post-card with a picture of a wagon of "Irrigated Spuds." The illustration illustrates the good work Uncle Sam is doing in the West in irrigating the lands.

THE Hon. D. C. Moorman, Glendale, G. B. Cunningham, Chehalis, G. W. Dodson, Frymire, and J. D. Babbage, Cloverport, will attend the State Farmer's Institute to be held in Frankfort next Tuesday, Feb. 27.

GUS W. RICHARDSON and T. Scott Mayes, are both out of the race for Congress. This leaves Ben Johnson with a clear field. If no other candidate is announced by May 17 the primary will be declared off. Mr. Johnson is not likely to have any opposition. The people are with him and for him.

THE friends of temperance all over the county are applauding Senator Dick Owen for his stand on the Unit bill. If the Unit bill fails it cannot be laid at his door. They say that Ed. Shellman is doing all he can for it, too. We say well done, good and faithful servants, there will be crowns laid up in Heaven for you.

WE congratulate Louisville and Mayor Barth. When men like Peter Lee Atherton, Oscar Fenley, W. C. Nones and Theodore Ahrens are appointed to take charge of a great public enterprise and a public trust, surely things are looking up for our great and good city. Here is an example for all the state to follow. Put the best men regardless of their political views in office. These appointments of Mayor Barth will be an uplift to every community in the state.

EVERY man in town, whether business man or not, ought to be a member of the Commercial Club. The organization is on a sound basis now and results will be forthcoming. Dr. A. A. Simons plays his part as president well and the other officers are equally as good. Attend the meetings, take part in them. If you hear of parties wanting locations, hand their names over to the Commercial Club. The Club will do every thing possible to locate an honest enterprise in Cloverport.

THE Methodist congregation at Irvington Sunday night, after the services resolved itself into a temperance meeting, nominated and elected Rev. Roe as a delegate to go to Frankfort in the interest of the county unit bill. A collection was taken up and enough money raised to pay Rev. Roe's expenses to stay there a week, if necessary. If every community would lend the same action and send a delegate, it would make such an impression on our Senators and Representatives that they would not dare vote against the bill.

SENATOR R. W. OWEN was a passenger on train 42 last Monday. He had been home to spend Sunday. The Senator was looking well, Frankfort life seems to agree with him. The session, he says, will wind up on the thirteenth of March. There are ten Sundays and two holidays which run the session this far into March. Senator Owen was a member of the committee which went to Hopkinsville to report on the situation in that institution. He says his committee found every thing in tip top order and well kept. He says it is one of the best managed institutions in the state and run at less cost. The capacity of the institution he says is only capable of taking care of 450 inmates while they have over a thousand enrolled. The allowance for each inmate is $140 a year and out of this amount, Dr. Board has saved enough to partly build a laundry. He says Dr. Board is a splendid Superintendent and has the institution thoroughly systematized and organized and is running it on up-to-date business methods. It is well known to every reader of this paper that the News does not like Dr. Board's political methods a little bit. But if he is making a good officer and doing his duty to the inmates and to the state, and we presume he is, we are glad to give him due credit for it.

foused to possess many possibilities of happiness, which the markings spelled for passing on.

Inspired with this idea of sending out remembrances which might be multiplied from side to side, a few cards were given to Mrs. Alden by the Hospital staff and these cards were at once sent out. The thanks received for them were so pretty that an item was made of them in the New York Recorder. This caused such a correspondence as resulted in a club for the exchange of friendly greetings. The name of "Chat" was at first chosen for the column, but in time the membership grew so large that the name "Society" was adopted and in 1886 the name of the society was changed to the "Sunshine" Society, and its active members were to include all who were desirous of brightening life by their thought or deed.

The growth of the Society has been almost phenomenal. From the parent society branches have sprung up until every State in the Union is represented by regularly enrolled presidents and organizers.

There are now branches, each one consisting of at least ten members, and it becomes entitled to a State president. Besides the thousands of members in the United States, there are flourishing branches in England, Japan, India, France and Germany.

The Society motto.

The contribution to furnish the Society's motto ran for three months and among the many thousands of verses received the following poem sent in by Mrs. W. H. Chase of Brooklyn was selected:

Good cheer.

Have you had a kindness shown?
Pass it on.
'Twas not given for you alone—
Pass it on.

Let it travel down the years,
Let it wipe another's tears,
Till in heaven the dead appears—
Pass it on.

At the time the verse was selected no one knew the author and it was not for several years after the Society had adopted the motto that the writer was discovered to be Rev. Henry Burton, D. D., of Lytham, England. He had written the poem twenty-five years ago and had almost forgotten it until the Sunshine Society brought it into prominence. Mr. Burton is now the pastor of the Lytham Congregational Church and has been so interested in the Society that now everybody in his church and Sunday school has become a Sunshine.

Mr. Burton's parishioners are building a beautiful church and in fact everybody but the Society Sunshine is giving a hand. The world over are planning to raise funds for a hand-some memorial window bearing the poem which has inspired so many to acts of kindness and thoughtfulness.

The Dues.

One of the unique features of the Society is the payment of a membership fee, which is the equivalent of some kind act which will bring "sunshine" to some one. It may be only an exchange of books, pictures or flowers, or it may bring more material help. In one case a known woman had paid her dues by educating some boy as long as she lived instead of placing a costly monument over her son's grave. In nearly every State in the Union there is a Sunshine Society giving in memory of some dear one. These are passed around to crippled and helpless ones and are constantly in use.

Through the Society have been collected funds and sent out that $10,000 has been given to carry on its work. From the International headquarters, 96 Fifth Avenue, New York City, nearly $10,000 has been expended in the past five years to make others happy.

Newspaper Aid.

The newspapers insist be given credit in a large degree for the growth of the Society. Originating in a newspaper office it has everywhere received the endorsement of the press until today over 200 papers are regularly carrying Sunshine news.

The Society has a publication of its own called the Sunshine Bulletin, of which Mrs. Alden, the founder and president-general, is editor.

Features of Sunshine Work.

Each State division of the Sunshine Society endeavors to have some established feature kept up by the members of the society, either to stimulate or to render service to society. The work takes the form of day nurseries, homes for crippled children and aged ones, maintaining beds in hospital wards, frost air and outing cottages, Sunshine libraries, lunch rooms for working girls, etc., etc.

The greatest and the Society has to contend with is the fake sunshine societies grafters organize to defraud the public. The popularity of the Society and the ready response that every appeal of Sunshine receives to make the Society these grafters to reap a rich harvest. Readers should remember that the only authentic Sunshine Society is Mrs. Cynthia Westover Alden as its president-general and is called the International Sunshine Society.

THE BEGGER TRUST.

REGULARLY ORGANIZED FOR THE PURPOSE OF MULCTING THE PUBLIC.

Ingenious Make-Ups and Cruel Devices Practiced—Arrest Made and the Principals Sent to Prison—Famous Orkney Beggar.

As old as is civilization, so old is the history of the beggar kingdom, for wherever have been found any collection of men, the beggars there played their business despite indifference and the scorn of the majority, and always to the detriment of the honest. The poorer one draws to the warmer countries more and more numerous one finds the professional beggar. Egypt, India and Italy are the worst examples. In countries which boast of their high civilization beggary flourishes not through the lack of people who make beggary their profession and who have made a fine art of the method of getting the money. And beggars of this class do not seem to stop at criminality.

A recent case was noted in press districts of New York, where practiced by a beggar upon three children in Austria who had been kidnapped from their parents. The old man's rate of suffering at the hands of the beggar who had broken their legs in two places and was still in pain had the two boys, who were in kitting out for him and their pilot, give him a sum of money to give him more sums because of their apparent misery.

Fake Deformities.

While a number of the beggars found in large cities are really crippled or deaf and dumb, yet it is known fact to the police authorities that there are estimated to be 10,000 of these poor and lazy persons are readily manufactured into objects of charity. The theme of one of the best of the Sherlock Holmes stories is a wonderfully "made-up" beggar who robs the police.

GUY ELLIOTT MITCHELL

We all know that there is big money in raising chickens, but there is in it for us, depends entirely on ourselves and whether or not we are keeping up with the procession in raising the kind of chickens which bring the most money and in getting them into the market at a time when the demand is greatest. The value of poultry production for the United States this season was but a shade under $1,000,000,000, or a sum equivalent to over half a billion dollars. Since the perfection of the incubator, the importance of the industry has been greatly augmented. By the end of the spring, chickens have to be completely set to breed in large quantities of chickens for the winter and early spring market when prices are very attractive. Hens can be urged, but they can not be made to set if they do not want to, the incubator can be set at any time. All that is overcome, and there will be little trouble in teaching the uses and management of the ordinary hatching machine.

Not Difficult to Manage.

While there is no question of doubt about the successful operation of an incubator, close attention and exactness are necessary, yet the results are more than worth the effort. The woman who will have the requirements every morning, and the man who winds his watch or clock at the right time, it will be unreasonable to look for a good hatching of chickens from the best incubator upon the market.

The writer has used incubators and has found great delight in hatching into a big laying, heavy weighted and highly profitable flock, that it seems strange that there should be a single flock of dung-hills throughout the country which will feed and care for a broad breasted Plymouth Rock, or a Wyandotte, or a huge light Brahma, and any of a dozen or more standard varieties, 6 doves for the roosters, and with the low price at which good eggs, or practically pure hatched cockerels can be had, it is the easiest breeding imaginable, and after three years of systematic breeding, a flock of chickens producing three times the profit of the original.

Standard Kinds of Chickens.

A fascinating little bulletin has been issued by the Department of Agriculture, for the benefit of those who are reptile with illustrations of the principal standard varieties of chickens, the reading of which by any chicken grower, however small, should be of great value. Your resolution to make the flock a real money earner, T's bulletin, while it will prove, probably, a mere entertainment for me, is excellent literature on the subject, can be obtained without cost from the Directors and Members of Congress, or the Secretary of Agriculture, and the proof of its popularity is apparent. In the opinion of the writer, it has been necessary to publish to supply the demand throughout the country.

Caponizing Fowls.

One of the most attractive features of poultry raising is the production of capons. This is a skill which can be easily learned, and with a very slight expenditure for a set of instruments, can follow it to any degree desired. It requires some judgment and a little attention, but it is not difficult. It is one of those things which, while it looks, in the beginning, to be a hard proposition, gradually comes to you of itself, so that the first time you do it, you have almost an automatic, and the reward is very considerable. Capons always sell readily and at a good advance in price. The birds become very docile and easily handled, and always make workers. The readiness with which the new capon recovers from the wound is a revealing living germs are sold on the street for 10¢, about one-sixth of a cent each.

After being tested they are kept in the jars for seven days, a single chick and all the others in a single jar of six days in the jars. Then they are taken in a bamboo basket and volved out on a mat on the platform above the jars. Hatching only heat they receive is from the room, except during cold weather they are ever with the very warm. After that are hatched the chicks are put in shallow baskets for a short time to gain strength and then they are ready for sale. The hatch by this remarkable method is from 60 to 70 per cent.

MORE POULTRY,
LESS TOBACCO

Says C. L. Polk, of Skillman—Fine Points in Favor of Chicks.

LESS WORK, MORE PROFIT.

Skillman, Ky., Feb. 12.—Mr. Editor:

—I see in the last issue of the News that Mrs. Fred May has a fine brood of young chicks and you ask that if any one can beat it, to let you know. So here we come. The poultry dame of this section, Mrs. Polk, has at this time 157 young chicks, ranging in size from a quail down to ten days old, and the wooden hen is setting again with 100 eggs, which will come out shortly. While Mrs. May is commendable for her nice start, possibly more so than Mrs. Polk, yet the latter has the advantage by not having to wait for old hibby to become broody. She has hatched all hers by incubation and has found that the raising of winter chickens for early market is not a matter of impossibility as some may think. These chicks are healthy and growing nicely, notwithstanding the recent cold spell we have just gone through. And right here I would like to make a suggestion to every reader of your paper, and especially those that grow tobacco, to raise more poultry and less or no tobacco. What man is there, with the help of the wife and children who cannot with the same amount of labor and expense raise more dollars worth of poultry than a tobacco?

Let's figure it out. There are six cows, costing one dollar a day. On an average, each cow yields 700 lbs. of milk to the acre, $20.00 at U. S. $21.00, $2.50 at 5¢, $19.50, 100 bushels at 2¢, $2.00. Total $65.50 multiplied by 3 gives $196.50 for one year a word is lost.

Now how many hens will you have to raise to bring that sum amount? Two hundred and thirteen hens, weighing only 3 lbs. each, at present prices, will bring you that amount after shipping expenses are paid. Now who would not rather raise 120 doz. hens than three acres tobacco? Figure it out, you men, who live in the rural districts and have been a slave to trusts, and see if you can get the consent of your mind to try it just for once, as an experiment any way. Hey you an incubating if you can? If you can't let every old hen on the farm that will set the little chicks to your attention, and my word for it, you will be well pleased with the results. Then you will always know what to do with your poultry, win-sometimes it puzzles you to know what is best to do with your tobacco. But who says if every body raised chicks in the market it would not overstock? Not a bit of it. Poultry commands higher prices every year.

Here is my plan for you. Save every pullet you raise, make that a point of saving them for hatching later. They have consumed so much fuel. Don't keep them too long. Your pullets will begin laying by early winter, and with good warm quarters and the right kind of feed, will lay all winter, when eggs command the highest possible price. When the price of eggs drops to ten or twelve cents, hens will be at their highest price, then sell your hens. Thus you have all the egg product at highest prices. And your hens will go on the market at a time when they will bring more than at any other time of the year. So take my advice for one and try it.

Surrenders His Daughter.

When the venerable Bishop Satterlee asked the question presented in the ritual, "Who giveth this woman to be married to this man?" President Roosevelt ascended the platform and bowed to the distinguished prelate. Taking them his daughter's hand he placed it in that of the bridegroom. Having performed this function, the President resumed his place at the right of Mrs. Roosevelt.

At the conclusion of the service which occupied less than ten minutes, Mr. and Mrs. Longworth held an informal reception of the guests attending upon the ceremony. JOHNSON GOES TO OHIO COUNTY.

Senator Ben Johnson, whose announcement to Congress in the Fourth district has taken considerable of the wind out of Dave Smith's sail, is visiting in Ohio county today in the interest of his candidacy. It is claimed by those in a position to know that Senator Johnson will easily beat out Congressman Smith in the race for the nomination, as he will have the administration's support, in spite of his advocacy of Blackburn's candidacy in the recent contest.

The administration forces believe that Senator Johnson is one of the strongest men in the Fourth district, and in addition to the fact the election of Johnson to Congress would leave a vacancy in the state Senate from the Nelson, Steele and Spencer district, which will also be filled by an administration man.

NATION'S BRIDE IS MARRIED.

Beautiful Wedding Gown.

Her wedding gown was an exquisite creation. It was of heavy white broad saten, pale lace, chiffon, flimsy tulle and silver brocade. The material from which the gown was created was manufactured especially for Miss Roosevelt. The design, intricate and delicate in its details, was designed as soon as the necessary amount of the material for the dress was completed.

The gown had a very long train of elegant silver brocade. The bodice was made high without a collar; was trimmed with beautiful and old point lace, the sleeves being finished at the elbow with the same flimsy material. Long white gloves barely met the sleeves. A voluminous tulle well practically completely enveloped the graceful figure of the charming bride. In her hair it was caught and held in place by clusters of orange blossoms.

Her dainty slippers, in perfect harmony with her gown, were fastened with silver brocade and tulle bows caught with orange flowers instead of buckles. The bride wore no jewels except two magnificent diamond necklaces, which was the gift of the groom. She carried a lovely shower bouquet of the rarest and daintiest white orchids which the groom was able to procure.

The formal sessions were arranged in cascade effect, falling over her right arm nearly to the root of her gown. The bouquet was tied with crimson ribbon with orange blossoms.

Chains His Bride.

As the usher reached the platform they separated and the President and the bride passed through the two lines. Mr. Longworth stepped forward and received Miss Roosevelt from the arm of the President, and together the bride and bridegroom ascended the two steps of the platform. Miss Etta Roosevelt relieved the bride of her bouquet and held it through the ceremony.

As Miss Roosevelt and Mr. Longworth bade Bishop Satterlee a bushell over the assembly. Every one of the thousand present wished to catch every syllable of the ceremony which was to follow. In distinct, resonant voices, the Bishop began the beautiful marriage service of the Episcopal church. The responses of both the bride and the bridegroom were audible distinctly throughout the great apartment.

Particularly clear were those of the bride whose voice was as natural and clear as in ordinary conversation.

While her face was a shade paler than usual, her self-possession was perfect and she went through the ceremony without a symptom of nervousness.

CAUGHT BY THE GRIP-- RELEASED BY PE-RU-NA.

LaGrippe Is Epidemic Catarrh.
It spares no class or nationality. The eminence and the ignorant, the aristocrat and the pauper, the masses and the classes are alike subject to la grippe. None are exempt—all are liable.

Grip is well named. The original French term, la grippe, has been shortened by the busy American to read Grip.

Without intending to do so, a new word has been coined that exactly describes the case. As if some hideous giant with a awful grip had clutched us in its fatal clasp.

It is catching like wildfire among children, whole towns and cities are caught in the baneful grip of a terrible monster.

Have you the grippe? Or, rather, has the grippe got you? If so, read the following letters.

These testimonials speak for themselves as to the efficacy of Peruna in cases of la grippe and its after-effects:

Saved by Peruna.

Hon. John R. Galli is one of the oldest and most esteemed men of Omaha, Neb. He has done much to make what it is, serving on public boards a number of times. He endorses Peruna in the following words:

"I am 68 years old, am pale and heavy and Peruna has helped me attain my weight. I am 100 lbs. ago had a grippe—my life was despaired of. Peruna saved me." J. R. Guill.

A Relative of Abraham Lincoln.

Mr. Silas S. Lincoln, who resides at 613 Street, N. W., Washington, D. C., has the honor of being a cousin to the author of this article.

"I had a grippe five times before taking your medicine. The third bottle completed the cure."—H. J. Goss.

Cured in a Few Weeks.

Miss Jean Cowgill, Griswold Opera House, Troy, N. Y., is the leading lady with the Aubrey Stock Co. She writes the following:

"During the past winter of 1901, I suffered for several weeks from a severe attack of grippe, which left a serious catarrhal condition of the throat and head.

"Some one suggested Peruna. As a last resort, after consulting with doctor and money on physicians, I tried the remedy faithfully, and in a few weeks was as well as ever."—Jean Cowgill.

Grip Resulted in Catarrh.

Miss Alice Bielek, Treasurer Young Women's Society of the Lutheran Church, Menasha, Wis., writes:

"I gratefully acknowledge the good that Peruna did me after I had been sick with a grippe which left me in a very weak and emaciated condition, with catarrhal trouble of the head and ears."

"My mother suggested that I take it to build up my strength and rid myself of the troublesome catarrh, and it acted with wonderful speed.

"I was able to resume my work in spite of the grippe, and I am in splendid health now."—Alice Bielek.

One reason why Peruna has found permanent use in so many homes is that it contains no grippe of any kind. Peruna is perfectly harmless.

"Last spring I suffered from a grippe and was partially cured, but the bad after-effects remained through the winter. I did not get strong again until I did not get strong again as I was before."

"One of my college friends who was visiting me asked me try Peruna and I did so and found it all and more than I had expected."

"It not only cured me of the catarrh but restored me to perfect health and the entire system."—Alice M. Dresler.
